GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1934

Haverty To Give Art Lecture

Atlanta Business Man and Connoisseur of Art Will Lecture January 29.

Students of G. S. C. W. will be given a rare treat January 29 when Mr. J. J. Haverty, connoisseur of art and prominent Atlanta business man, lectures in the evening in the Richard B. Russell Auditorium.

Mr. Haverty makes a hobby of art and has collected a large number of masterpieces since he began his search for fine creations. He is prominent in the activities of the High Museum of Art in Atlanta.

The connoisseur, who is an active layman in the Catholic church, has been honored by the pope. He also received an official decoration for his services.

During his sojourn in Milledgeville Mr. Haverty will be the guest of Mr. R. W. Hatcher and Father James McNamara. His program is under the auspices of Pi Gamma Mu, Beta Chapter of G. S. C. W.

Mrs. Ross Heads Savannah Club

Mrs. Olan Ross was elected president of the G. S. C. W. Club at the luncheon meeting of the Savannah Club held Saturday, December 10, in the Charlton Room of the Hotel Savannah. Serving with her will be Miss Elizabeth Hill, vice-president; Mrs. S. J. Murrow, recording secretary; Miss Eva Doston, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Thomas F. Dyson, treasurer.

The affair was in the nature of a Christmas party with appropriate decorations and was in honor of the incoming officers and the outgoing ones who are: president, Miss Camille Miller; vice president, Mrs. J. L. Highsmith; recording secretary, Miss Clara Brake; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Castagno; and treasurer Mrs. J. C. Metts. Miss Miller was presented with a silver tray by the club in appreciation of her splendid and loyal service.

A report of the Alumnae Council meeting at Milledgeville was given by Miss Camille Miller and Mrs. Olan Ross, and a resume of the two years' work was given by Miss Clara Brake. A committee composed of Miss Christine Ryals, Mrs. S. J. Murrow and Mrs. Thos. F. Dyson was appointed to buy a boudoir chair for the Savannah room at the Parks Memorial Hospital in Milledgeville.

Among those who were present are: Miss Camille Miller, Miss Clara Brake, Miss Mary Castagno, Mrs. J. L. Highsmith, Miss Amelia Robinson, Mrs. Ruth Cowart, Mrs. Frances Muir Turner, Miss Christine Ryals, Miss Eva Doston, Mrs. Ethel Marce Copps, Mrs. Olan Ross, Mrs. S. J. Murrow, Mrs. Thos. F. Dyson and Mrs. James H. Bodwen.

128 Courses Offered In Winter Quarter

There are one hundred and twenty-eight courses being offered this quarter. Home economics takes the lead presenting eighteen courses. Second is education with seventeen subjects; art and English are third with eleven; and history fourth offering 9 courses. In order are chemistry, 8; biology, 7; commerce, 7; mathematics, 6; physical education 5; French, 4; geography, 4; music, 4; Latin, 3; Spanish, 3; physics, 2; Sociology, 2.

Out of the one hundred and twenty-eight courses offered fifty-three are half subjects coming three days a week.

Y President Tells Of National Conference

Cabinet and Commission Have Joint Meeting to Hear Margaret K. Smith.

At a joint meeting of Y Cabinet and Sophomore Commission last Tuesday afternoon, Margaret K. Smith discussed her experiences in New York recently and her work with the National Y Student Council, of which she is president.

After relating incidents connected with some of the places of interest she visited, such as Greenwich Village and some of the Broadway theatres, Miss Smith stated some of the results of the discussions held by the council. "Perhaps the outstanding thing to me about the entire meeting was the contact with students from all parts of the United States and the realization that students the nation over have the same problems and interests." Some of the problems discussed by the students at the meeting were the scarcity of employment for college graduates, the question of a means of self-expression for students, the difficulties students find in adjusting themselves to the world, and the adjustment to God, the center of the universe.

The council discussed also the responsibilities of college students, such as the national and international problems, the economic and educational systems, and the question of increasing racial prejudice.

Students all over the United States recognize their responsibilities and problems. "We realize that we are in the box seats now," said Margaret K., "but we know that soon we must jump down into the arena of life."

Miss Mamie Padgett, head of the art department, returned to the college Wednesday night after being confined at her home in Miami, Florida because of an attack of flu. The students and members of the faculty welcome her return.

Ford Montgomery In Piano Recital

Milledgeville Musician Renders Enjoyable Program Before Large Audience.

The old adage "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," was proven false on Tuesday night, when a capacity house greeted Ford Montgomery in the auditorium at the Georgia State College for Women. This was Mr. Montgomery's first public appearance in Milledgeville, as pianist, since he left here for a study in Boston in 1928.

The round of applause he received, when he appeared, proved the love and esteem in which the Milledgeville people hold one of their own prophets. When he was a lad his teachers and friends, who appreciate his unusual musical ability and talent, prophesied a coming artist.

Those who heard him play, on Tuesday night, know that this prophecy had become a certainty. Ford Montgomery is an artist.

His program throughout, was a tribute to those with whom he has been studying, since he left, and to his own perseverance in long and continued hours of practice, and determination to succeed and win the success which he so justly deserves.

He played brilliantly with a delicate and exquisite tone quality in the pianissimo passages, with masterful and dignified bravado in the crescendo and fortissimo passages, and most skillful technique in every number.

CWA Employees To Work On Campus

The Georgia State College for Women is certainly receiving her share of the Civil Works Administration projects.

A project that has been approved and that will employ from twenty-five to thirty women is the making, repairing, and renovating the mattresses all over the campus. Another project that has been passed is that of making one thousand swimming suits, and curtains, towels, and robes for the new health and physical education department. Thirty will receive employment in the undertaking.

The making of comforts, sheets, pillow cases, servants uniforms, aprons and caps will employ about thirty women. Two skilled workers and thirty women will repair, make, and upholster the household and kitchen furniture. The grading of the campus and the filling in of side walks on Wilkinson and Montgomery Streets around the Parks Memorial Hospital will utilize six to eight skilled workers and forty men.

A project that is in the process of approval is the establishment of a nursery school. This school would employ fifteen people, including a supervisor, welfare worker, nurse, teacher, maid, janitor, and cook.

Rev. H. S. Smith Talks In Chapel Wednesday

Rev. Horace Smith, pastor of the Methodist church here, addressed the students and faculty of G. S. C. W. Wednesday morning in the Richard B. Russell Auditorium. His subject was "The Atmosphere of Personality."

In the course of his address, Dr. Smith brought out the fact that the atmosphere of character and personality works unconsciously. "It may be poisonous; it may be painful," he stated. "Character works with or without our consent."

The pastor has been in Milledgeville only a short time. The entire student body heard him for the first time at the chapel hour Wednesday.

Radio Audience Hears Talk On Germany

Dr. McGee Explains Situation On G. S. C. W. Radio Program.

The feature of the weekly G. S. C. W. broadcast over station WMAZ on January 8 was an interview with Dr. Sidney L. McGee. Dr. George Harris Webber interviewed Dr. McGee concerning Hitler and his regime in Germany today.

Dr. McGee spoke of Hitler's great hold on the German people, and expressed the opinion that he will remain in power until the next economic depression. Hitler, Dr. McGee believes, finds it necessary to hold his prestige by bolstering up the enthusiasm of the people through a series of increasingly sensational triumphs. War will probably be inevitable, and the Germans are being purposely and thoroughly prepared toward this objective. Dr. McGee sees in Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations more of domestic than foreign policy, and believes that the breach is not yet irreparable. He calls attention to the necessity for continued armament in France, inasmuch as military strength lies not so much in actual arms supplies as in manpower and industrial strength and Germany is thus potentially stronger than France.

This was Dr. McGee's first discussion of Germany on the air. Since his return from that country, he has given a number of lectures on conditions there.

Rochill, Burney, Arnett, Elected To Spectrum Staff

Harriet Rochill, Margaret Burney, Anne Arnett, and Margaret Jordan were elected to the Spectrum staff at a meeting of this group Thursday.

Miss Rochill will serve as feature editor; Miss Burney, athletic editor; Miss Arnett, assistant business manager, and Miss Jordan, secretary.

Univ. Council Will Meet Here

Presidents, Deans, and Registrars in University System to be Guests of College.

The Council of the University System of Georgia will hold its annual spring session at G. S. C. W. on Friday and Saturday, January 19 and 20. The council includes the chancellor of the university system, the presidents, deans, registrars of all the units in the university system, the officers of the extension division, and the directors of the experiment stations.

During their stay at Milledgeville the visitors will be entertained at the homes of the faculty members and in Bell Hall. They will take their meals in the Atkinson hall dining room.

Among those who are expected to attend the meetings are Chancellor Phillip Weltner; President and Mrs. S. V. Sanford, Dean W. V. Skiles, Mr. T. W. Reed, registrar, of the University of Georgia, Athens; President M. L. Brittan, Mr. H. L. Caldwell, Dr. W. G. Perry, Georgia Tech, Atlanta; (Continued on Back Page)

English Club Hears Talk On Lanier

The Freshman English Club was entertained with a delightful talk on the life and works of Sidney Lanier by Dorothy Wilkinson at its regular meeting Wednesday, January 10, at 5:30 o'clock in Dr. Wynn's classroom. The report was the third of a series, given by members of the Southern Literature class to the club.

By agreement of all present, the time of meeting of the club was changed to Friday at 5:30 instead of Wednesday, to avoid conflict with other meetings. It will meet every other Friday, the first time to be two weeks from January 12.

A "hamburger party" is planned for Saturday, January 20, at Nesbit woods, from 5:00 to 7:30 in the afternoon. All members and any who wish to join are invited, as well as those girls who have addressed the club, and the advisor, Dr. Wynn.

Use of Mimeograph Demonstrated at Club

The Commerce Club met Wednesday, January 10, in Miss Barnett's classroom at 5:30 o'clock. During the business discussions, plans were made for the next social, which is a monthly affair.

One of the projects of the club was given. Lillian Jordan, the president, showed the members how to cut a stencil and how to use the mimeograph machine. This was very instructive, and greatly enjoyed by all members. Other similar projects will be given during the year.

We Wonder Why

The student body of G. S. C. W., in general, is not interested in our present system of Bible study. This is apparent from the meager and irregular attendance at the various classes. There is evidently something wrong with either the system or the student body.

Good teachers have been provided for the Bible study classes, persons who have a message of potential value to students. Apparently the root of the trouble is not there. Is the student overburdened by religious obligations if he attempts to attend all the services conducted on the campus? Is he too pressed for time to spare one hour every Sunday morning for Bible study? After a relative consideration of values, it would seem that neither of these excuses constitute a real cause.

Does it not follow, then, that the reason for failure to attend Bible study classes must be traced back to an utter lack of interest on the part of the student? It is simply "too much trouble" to go to Sunday School, which means that one has not the slightest desire to go. The important question is whether this apathy is due to some fallacy in the character of the student or to a weakness in the organization of Bible study on the campus.

Wherever the trouble is, it is evident that it must be found and the situation remedied.
If an infected member cannot be cured, it must be cut off.

Outstanding Student

Enthusiasm is contagious. When that enthusiasm is for admirable causes, and when the person possessing it is an individual with powers of leadership and a dynamic personality, it becomes doubly effective.

"Enthusiastic" seems the best word to use in speaking of Virginia Tanner. Belief in herself, belief in her school, belief in her fellow-workers, but above all, belief in the possibilities of her cause must be the secret of the great impression she has made on the campus.
She is probably more responsible than any other student for the increased privileges of the student body and the tendency toward self-government which has been growing encouragingly this year.

Virginia is the sort of person who is willing to go a little beyond the stated duties of her office in order to further what she considers a worthy cause. Her recent trip to Washington was made for the purpose of better fitting herself for her task. Everybody has confidence in her, everybody realizes what great service she is rendering, and everybody loves her.

A forceful and disarming personality, backed by a burning enthusiasm which can but have its effect on all with whom she comes in contact and on every cause she undertakes—that's Virginia Tanner.

Leadership Recognized

Margaret K. Smith's recent election as resident of the National Student Council of the Y. W. C. A. proves that other people, far away from G. S. C. W., share our opinion of Casey; namely, that here is a student of ability, of great talent, of vision, of character, and of tireless enthusiasm, one willing to give unsparringly of herself, her time, and her talents in service to her fellows.

As president of the Y. W. C. A. here, she is serving her second year as a leading influence for good on the campus. She seems the personification of all the "Y" stands for.
Many worthwhile projects have been accomplished under her leadership, many needed reforms brought about, many inspiring messages given to the student body. And the personality and splendid spirit of the girl herself provides a source of continued stimulation and encouragement for the students of G. S. C. W.

We are truly fortunate in having such a person among us.

"The House of Exile"

"The House of Exile" by Nora Wain is a complete and intimate story of life in a Chinese family. The imaginative picture of four hundred millions of Chinese kneeling beside canals washing themselves and their food, and then converting this same water into quantities of tea, is lost forever. The delicacy and culture of the "House of Exile" and many similar Chinese establishments is utterly out of the realm of Western scope.

Nora Wain went to China as a young girl and lived as a member of a venerable Chinese family. She later married an Englishman in the Chinese Government Service. She explains the political situation with clearness from actual observation, but the greatness of her book lies in the details of the Chinese life beyond the "To and From the World Door" of the Lin Household. Birth, marriage and death, sowing and harvesting, pass in an unbelievable confusion of red carpets, breasts of chicken, jade silk slippers, salted watermelon seeds, shell-pink velvet, lavender curtains of wisteria, black wood cabinets, jewels and spices—hundreds of wonders of exquisite beauty that have never been realized.

That Nora Wain is sincere cannot be doubted, and she closes as she began, with a vivid description of a trip up the Grand Canal,
where the lotus blooms along the waterway, where the high arched stone bridges cast the shadow of a good-luck ring at midday—to enter once more the To and From the World Gate of the House of Exile, where the Elders said, "It is a great achievement for a talka-tive woman to have written so many pages,"
—and the Family Council gave her permission to submit her manuscript.

Keyhole Tidbits

Scouting around the campus the past week has disclosed the following unusual and amazing occurrence:

Virginia Tanner telling of Washington
blizzards and New York subways.

Miss Martin disillusioning freshmen chemistry students by telling them that all the elements had already been discovered.

Evelyn Turner stating that she would like to go West (?) when she graduates in June.

Miss Thaxton asking for title, author, publisher, home address, and telephone number of sophomore health references.

Some bright person who could tell the Pridden twins apart.

A certain sophomore endeavoring to sell a fellow-classmate a road map for a person without a car who was going nowhere in particular and who is in no special hurry to get there.

One of our up-and-coming young freshmen marveling of the great number of poems
"that Mr. Anon writes!"

Sally Ryan, after running up and down the library steps three or four times in search of reference books, making the remark that she was under the impression that we were going to get new gymnasium to take exercise in.

And speaking of impressions, we have come to the conclusion that although the noise, pomp, and hilarity of the court of Louis XIV was astounding, Louis hasn't got a thing on the court life here between Terrell and Bell.

Horace Greeley always insisted that the word "news" was plural. According to the Publishers' Auxiliary he once wired one of his star reporters in another city: "Are there any news?" The reporter wired back four hours later: "Not a single new." That's the trouble now—not a single new, nothing to say—

These faint gasps you hear are just good
New Year's resolutions breathing their last.
And then there was the girl who was worth her weight in gold—once. Wonder what that would amount to now that we're off the gold standard?

Cricketing must be a good sport to indulge in. An Indian was showered with gifts, money, jewels, and cars when he won a Hindu-English cricket match—the first time that a Hindu had ever won it.

Scoops

Can't think—world's too cold.
Can't write—all news is old.
Can't sleep—blankets not enough.
Can't eat—well, now THAT'S tough!

No mail—they've just gotta'
write.
These first days are hard to fight.
No sense—it must be love!
I wish it'd fit just like a glove!
Whatta' life—but ain't it grand,
I feel better—strike up the band!

Now that that's off the calendar, perhaps I can write. But, then again maybe I can't write. Easily discouraged? Naw.

My talk today will be divided into three periods of history. We will follow the current issues of the day, the past issues, and the dim past issues—but they will be dealt with in the reverse order.

Ancient, or dim past: C. Trice broke up with the b. f. the day before Christmas. L. Parker broke up with "Wrightsville" the day after Christmas. B. Blalock lost the big set out of bef. dinner ring—presented on the Saturday before Christmas—on Christmas Eve! L. Boynton got a HUGE Evening in Paris set on the Friday before the big day from a boy (aw!) she hasn't seen since April —hadn't been writing, and she'd had only one date with him!

Middle, or past: Everyone got used to getting up before the "crack of dawn" and not making the dean's list!

Present, and future: M. Gammage and surprise bouquet of one dozen and a half pink rosebuds.
This is so sudden! (That's what Mary said.) H. Roehill and her Jimmy of the Heart of Georgia city. J. Verdier and the military ball at the University of Florida.
Recommended as the Song of the Week—without a change: "Everything I Have Is Yours." And see "Dancing Lady"—it's marvelous. Yeah. But that tune of the song is the hardest thing to get.
Golly!

I'll close—and take a load off your shoulders.

The Health Club met Monday, January 8, at 5:30 in Mrs. Wootten's classroom in Chappell hall.
After the business meeting a report on parliamentary law, prepared by Miss Frances Thaxton, was read by a member of the club.

The program was given by Misses Maud New Shepherd,
Eloise Elzey, Margaret Burney, Celia Freeman, and Helen Hanna.

Mrs. Wootten invited the members of the club to meet at her home on the second Monday in February.

SANDMAN GOES NRA

The sand-sprinkler has a blue eagle entangled in his lengthy beard this season.

G. S. C. W. started the new year right by having all lumpy, uncomfortable mattresses made over.
The baby 1934 is well pleased with his accomplishment and the sandman works under the NRA code.

No doubt, the old gentleman is pleased, too. He no longer toils over restless Jessies who just will be stubborn, and less of his magic dust is necessary to lull them to sleep.

The improvement will help the faculty, also. No longer is it necessary for the members of that group to raise their voices in an effort to keep supposed students attentive.

Story of One Miss Scott's Poems Is Told

Some of the most valuable possessions of the late Miss Agnes Scott are her poems; behind which are many interesting stories taking from the lives of her friends.
When Miss Scott was doing public health nursing in Savannah, one of her parents, an old spinster, whom she visited every day, discussed some interesting facts—
even why she had never married:

She was a member of the English nobility, and in her youth had been very beautiful. Unfortunately, she fell in love with a commoner, but when he asked her to marry him she refused because she was unwilling to give up her life of luxury. Several years later when she realized that her love for him was truly genuine, he had become engaged to a girl of his own class.

This story was the inspiration for the following poem by Miss Scott:

Young Love Is Dead
Love came knocking at my door.
A moon and a moon ago.
Called me, "Come, for I am life."
But I would not go.

I went knocking at Love's door
Before the moon was old,
Whispered, "Young Love, let me in
For my heart is cold."

The vacant house stood black and still.
The moon turned her head.
An old wind came and mocked at me,

"Young Love is dead."

Columbus Club Entertained at Party During Holidays

Members of the Georgia State College for Women Columbus Club were delightfully entertained by Miss Dixie Thompson at her home on Cherokee Avenue Friday afternoon, December 29, after attending the Royal theatre.

Miss Betty Jean Ray, niece of the hostess, tap danced and sang several popular songs, after which tempting refreshments were served.

Those present included Misses
Maud and Frances Dixon, Leda
DeLamar, Sara Hadley, Virginia
Garrett, Mary Peacock, Helen Johnson, Miriam Craig, and Frances X. Profumo.

Constitution Discussed At Chemistry Club Meeting

On Saturday night, January 6, in the chemistry lecture room the Chemistry Club held its first meeting of the new quarter. Miss India Brown, president of the club, presided. The meeting was a business one and the constitution was read and discussed. It was voted that a committee composed of the chemistry faculty and officers of the club should rewrite the constitution, making changes necessary since the college has gone on the quarter basis.

Montgomery Honored At Practice Home

The students living in the practice home have been active during the past week.

On Sunday Mrs. Martha Christine, matron of Bell Annex was their dinner guest.

Sunday afternoon an impromptu party was given for the guests who called. Crackers and cocoa were served. Those enjoying the afternoon with the practice home
girls were Misses Mary Sawyer, Sally Ryan, Evie Turner, Amelie
Burus, Eulalie McDowell, Carolyn
Black, Lillian Dillard, Virginia
Phillips, Martha McGavoc, Sara
Robertson, Ann Gibson, Kathryn
Johnson, and Marjorie Sykes.

Thursday evening Mr. Ford Montgomery was honor guest at a dinner party. A delicious five course dinner was served with covers laid for Mr. Montgomery, his mother Mrs. D. F. Montgomery, Mr.
Charles Morris, Miss Clara Hass-lock, and four of the students.

The six students in the home
this assignment are Misses Marie Patterson, Nancy Pryor, Elizabeth Speir, Mary Posey, Frances Booth, and Dorothy Foss.

Sophomore Has Chance To Win $40,000 Prize

How would you feel if someone told you that you would be the fortunate possessor of $40,000 if you succeeded in surpassing 18
other students in your college work? That is precisely the situation of Vilda Shuman, Ennis sophomore.

Vilda's uncle who is 71 years of age, is offering the sum to the niece or nephew who makes the highest record in college.

The youngest contestant for the prize is now in the first grade.
One has already dropped out of the contest.

It's a long way from the first grade to college and a long wait for the older contestants. But after all, $40,000 is a long bank roll this century.

Vilda thinks if she does win, "It will come just when I need it most."

At present there is one nephew at the University of Georgia, one at Georgia Tech, and a niece at Florida State College for Women.

History Club Plans Georgia Day Program

The History Club met on Monday, January 10, in Dr. Johnson's classroom at 5:30. After the business discussions, plans were made for the Georgia Day program in the auditorium, to be sponsored by the club.

The program was given by Sue Mansfield, who spoke on the current events in France in 1933, and

Beethoven deserves especial mention. In the first movement, of this sonata, he proved himself a real artist. The program was a most difficult and heavy one and Mr. Montgomery maintained marked poise and musicianship throughout.

The undivided attention and sympathy of his audience, was a tribute to his skillful performance.

The Kiwanis Club may well be proud of the lad they have sponsored.

Dr. George Harris Webber said "I introduced Ford Montgomery to the Kiwanis Club when he was a mere lad, I have introduced him tonight, at his first recital, in the 'Home Town' as an artist, and I hope I may have the privilege, some future day, of introducing him as 'the' artist."

Mr. Montgomery is the son of D. F. Montgomery of Liberty street. He has been educated in the east under a scholarship.

The program for the recital follows:

- Brahms—Intermezzo—Op. 118.
- Capriccio—Op. 116.
- Beethoven—Sonata quasi una Fantasia—Op. 27, No. 2.
- Adagio sostenuto
- Allegretto
- Presto Agitato.
- Chopin—Nocturne—Op. 37, No. 2.
- Trois Esquisses—Op. 72, No. 3.
- D major, G Major, D flat major.
- Ballade—Op. 23.
- Meditation—Fairy Tale—Op. 20, No. 1.
- Tansman—Spiritual and Blues (From "Sonatine Transatlantique")
- Mac Dowell—The Eagle—Op. 32.
- Saint-Saens—Toccata—Op. 111, No. 6.
- Mac Dowell number played by request of the Milledgeville Music Club.

Phillip Barry Subject of Dramatic Program

The Dramatic Club met on Wednesday afternoon, January 10, in the Terrell recreation hall. A series of programs on the present day famous American dramatists has been planned for this quarter. Phillip Barry, a famous dramatist, was studied at this meeting. Miss Myra Jenkins gave an interesting review of Barry's life.

The Dramatic Club officers are: president, Katherine Mallory; program chairman, Mary Peacock; secretary and news reporter, Grace E. Greene; advisor, Alice Brimm.

The club first stepped into the limelight on the G. S. C. W. campus with the presentation of James M. Barrie's play, "The Twelve Pound Book." The cast was composed of the following members: Kate, Marion Hartshorn; Lady Sims, Jean Battle; and Tombes, Edna Lattimore.

The next meeting, Wednesday, January 24, in Ennis recreation hall, will be of vital importance to all members. Mrs. John Shinholsler will speak on the "Art of Stage Make-up." The club extends a most cordial invitation to all who wish to join.

Royston Club Has Holiday Luncheon

One of the most attractive features of the holiday festivities was the G. S. C. W. Alumnae Club luncheon which was given Wednesday, December 27, at the Johnson Hotel.

The Alma Mater idea was remembered in the neat favors of G. S. C. W. brown and gold miniature pennants which were placed before each plate.

Between courses a very delightful program was presented. Mrs. Branson James, president of the club, skillfully reviewed for the new members, the purpose and the previous events of the club. Miss Decora Adams, corresponding secretary and faculty member of G. S. C. W.'s neighboring school (G. M. C.), quite jocosely exhibited the contrast of the old fashioned and the spectacular regulations of the G. S. C. W. of yesterday and the more modern and subdued ones of today.

Two talented members of the club accompanied by Miss Gwendolyn Blackwell, increased the enjoyment of the hour: Miss Carolyn Wilder gave two violin solos, "Cradle Song" and "Memories," and Miss Mary Turner gave a vocal solo, "Shadow Waltz."

Mrs. Rufus Lester was an attractive guest.

The last event of the hour accentuated the hour when all present assembled around the piano to pay homage to G. S. C. W. by singing the Alma Mater.

The club will meet again in the summer for the next biennial meeting when it is expected that other members who have spent the holidays elsewhere will be present.

Those present for the luncheon were: Misses Decora, Jewell, Austell, and Frances Adams, Gwendolyn Blackwell, Laura Brown, Janie M. Jordan, Catherine Langford, Ruth Ridgway, Maxine Royston, Mary Turner, Carolyn Wilder and Mesdames Joe Cunningham, Bronson James, Esther McCrary Jones, Josephine Brown King, John Latham, Rufus Lester, Gus Richardson, and Jen Wian.

Dr. Wynn Attends Meeting Of Ga. English Commission

Dr. William T. Wynn attended a meeting of the Georgia English Commission in Atlanta Saturday. It will be remembered that this group was appointed last year by the Association of Georgia Colleges to supervise the freshmen English placement test for all colleges of the state.

Sophomore Class Has Progressive Party

The crowd gathered in front of Terrell Hall last Saturday afternoon at 5:30 were members of the sophomore class, assembled there in readiness to begin the class progressive supper party. At 6:00 the word to start was given, and the girls began following the white cord that was stretched from Terrell through the gym, and around the bleachers and tennis courts. At intervals along the way they received salad, sandwiches, potato chips, and tea.

When everyone was served the class assembled in the gym until 7:00, at which time they progressed to Ennis recreation hall. There chocolate suckers tied in red and black paper were presented as favors.

After this dancing was enjoyed until time for the show. Between dances special numbers were given by Margaret Hansell and Evelyn Groover. Mildred Watson presented a song which she has just composed entitled "Love."

Those playing in the orchestra which played popular numbers for dancing were: Caroline Wilder, Natalie Purdon, Evelyn Groover, Rosalie Sutton, and Doodle Conine.

Who Says Brains and Beauty Don't Mix

"Beauty and brains don't go together" as a proverb doesn't hold much weight in the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism.

In the recent Pandora beauty contest, conducted by the Biftard club, seven of the 15 first choices were students of journalism. As related to scholarship, for 2 of the past 3 years, students of this school have ranked highest in the annual intelligence tests.

These intelligence tests are required only of freshmen, but the upperclassmen have upheld this record set by the frosh as will be noticed by a glance at the Dean's list.

But it isn't a new situation for these girls to appear in the beauty section of the year book; it's been going on for years and it would not be surprising if it were continued during the decades to come.

The question has been raised, "so what?" but there is a very adequate answer for that inquiry; there's not a single graduate of this school out of a job during this period of depletion.

So back to the "brains and beauty" situation, one cannot blame Luxomini's fairest young maiden from enlisting in Prof. John E. Drewry's journalistic institution.—The Red and Black.

The Southern California Daily Trojan asks if you've heard of the bald man who didn't join the NRA because he couldn't do his "part."

Do-Dads From Elsewhere

The University of Chicago is staging a ping pong meet for women in a special room for ping pongers. Maybe we could get up a tiddly winks contest or a banister-sliding tournament for excitement during the cold evenings of January.

An old maid does not care so much for brains or money when she wants a husband. Appearance is what counts and the sooner the better.—The Mercer Cluster.

One town out in Kansas is so chinchy the board of censors recently failed to pass a movie film entitled "The Naked Eye."—The Mercer Cluster.

Scientists prophesy that in five years we shall have automobiles powered by radio.

If we can be conveyed by radio, why can't knowledge be?

AT LAST! A USEFUL ROLE IS FOUND FOR UKELELE

San Francisco, Jan. 14. (AP)—The ukelele which Miss Helen Kalwhite, of New York, and Helen Neal, of Los Angeles, carried to the south seas proved quite serviceable. The friends explained after their arrival on the liner Maunganui that, while riding in an outrigger canoe, they ran into difficulty among coral reef currents. So, they used the ukelele to bail out the canoe.

Helpless

Old Lady—"What are all those men doing?"

Nephew—"They are runners; the first one gets a gold loving cup."

Old Lady—"But what are all the others running for?"

Audubon Club Gives Book To G. S. C. Library

An autographed copy of Earle S. Greene's "Birds of the Atlanta Georgia Area" has been given the G. S. C. W. library by the Milledgeville Audubon Club.

Miss Mable T. Rogers and Miss Mary Burns were among the members of the local club attending the dinner of the Atlanta Bird Club in December.

Miss Connell Heads Club At Pembroke

The former graduates of the Georgia State College for Women met on Thursday, December 7, and listened to the program broadcast by the senior class.

After the program delicious refreshments were served by Miss Mildred Connell.

The group then called a business meeting and the following officers were elected: president, Mildred Connell; vice-president, Mrs. N. O. Morrison; secretary and treasurer, Miss Grace Lanier; social chairman, Daisye Geiger; membership chairman, Sophie DeLoach.

The club will hold monthly meetings and hopes to enroll new members.

Equality

An automobile expert estimates that there are five million sorry cars on the road that menace traffic and ought to be replaced. And there are at least twice that many sorry drivers, ditto.

—Valdosta Times.

Frankness

"Car manufacturers make no secret of the fact that they cater to women now." So says a magazine, adding that bathtubs are rose-colored; handbags and golf clubs betray feminine influence. But one still may buy a he-man shaving brush.

—Valdosta Times.
